HL7 in the Era of Patient Empowerment

September 10, 2012 at the Hyatt Regency Hotel • Baltimore, MD

8:30–8:45am	Welcoming Comments Don Mon, PhD Chair, HL7 Board of Directors		The consumer empowerment paradox appears to accurately represent longstanding, top-down vs. bottom-up contradictions in health care delivery, yet needs empirical testing. Paradox testing, in turn, requires a logic model that traces paths from keystone standards for clinical summary exchange to the potential empowerment of diverse consumers and the frustration of diverse providers. Test results are likely to reveal gaps in policy and standards that obstruct meaningful health IT use among consumers and providers alike. Elaine A. Blechman, PhD Professor Emerita, University of Colorado-Boulder and President, Prosocial Applications
8:45–9:15am	Keynote Session 1: Engaging Patients with Standards Topics covered will include how the HIT standards professional can transform healthcare by: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> enabling patients to be informed and informing bridging the legacy and innovative technologies harmonizing EHR and patient facing system interactions maximizing the data to improve quality Leslie Kelly Hall Senior Vice President, Healthwise
9:15–9:50am	Keynote Session 2: The Rise of e-Patients Three technology revolutions in the last generation have changed the way patients care for themselves and interact with doctors and peers: <ol style="list-style-type: none"> the internet/broadband revolution the mobile revolution the social networks revolution. Lee Rainie will describe how patients and caregivers use these technologies to inform themselves, deal with medical providers, and share their stories with fellow patients and their loved ones. Lee Rainie Director, Pew Research Center's Internet & American Life Project, and formerly the managing editor of the news magazine U.S. News & World Report	10:25–10:50am	Break
		10:50–12:20pm	Panel discussion featuring presentations from different stakeholders in the mobile health space on how they view the future of mobile health and HL7's potential role in this evolving arena Moderated by Doug Fridsma, MD, PhD Director, Office of Standards and Interoperability, Office of the National Coordinator for Health IT
		10:55–11:10am	Chuck Parker President, Continua Health Alliance
		11:10–11:25am	Christoph Lehmann, MD Professor of Pediatrics and Biomedical Informatics, Vanderbilt University, will discuss empowering families of children
		11:25–11:40am	Jim St. Clair , Senior Director, Interoperability and Standards, HIMSS
9:50–10:25am	Keynote Session 3: Consumer Empowerment Policy makers, professionals and technologists paradoxically believe that homogeneous health information technology standards can empower clinically heterogeneous healthcare consumers. This paradox underlies a 2004 presidential order for a Nationwide Health Information Network and a National Coordinator of Health Information Technology. Since then, HL7, HITSP, IHE, the Standards & Interoperability Framework have acted on this paradox, developing consumer standards for patient portals, personal health records (PHRs), care coordination, transitions of care, data segmentation, telehealth, mobile devices and Direct encrypted email. Evidence that few consumers use free portals threatens belief in the paradox, development of consumer standards and citizen support for healthcare reform.	11:40–11:55am	Lonnie Smith Policy Analyst, U.S. Food and Drug Administration (FDA), will discuss mobile applications of SPL
		11:55–12:10pm	Heather Grain Standards Australia
		12:10–12:20pm	Questions and Answers for panelists
		12:20–12:30pm	Closing Comments and a Vision for HL7's Future Charles Jaffe, MD, PhD CEO, Health Level Seven International

New Tutorial For Nurses!

How Nurses Can Use HL7? What Can Nurses Do for HL7?

Monday, September 10, 2012 • 1:45 – 5:00 pm

This tutorial “How nurses can use HL7”, provides an overview of Health Level Seven standards from a professional perspective. It explains what HL7 standards exist and how these assist nursing in EHR development and use, and in data communication efforts for several purposes. Standards are a prerequisite to functionality of healthcare information systems and the support of various care processes. In particular, where continuity of care and reporting of care quality are involved, nurses have a pivotal role. Such efforts usually involve more than one system, and more than one organization, hence, these require data communication. It is HL7’s mission to create the best and most widely used information standards in healthcare. Nurses have been increasingly involved in the Health Level Seven (HL7) Work Groups and the standards development processes over the past ten years. It makes sense addressing specifically the HL7 use by nurses, since they are the largest group of healthcare providers in the world. The ultimate goal of this tutorial is that the more engaged nurses are in the standards specifications and development process, the more functional their information systems and data exchanges will be.

This Tutorial Will Cover:

- Relevant types of standards for nursing and the position of HL7 in this
- The HL7 standards development organization,
- An understanding of HL7 version 3 standards, in particular Care Record and Clinical Document Architecture
- The Electronic Health Record / Personal Health Record standards
- How to handle nursing knowledge and vocabulary in the suite of HL7 standards
- How these standards are and may be used in nursing care
- Use of HL7 for continuity of care, meaningful use and quality reporting
- How nurses can participate in the standards development process.
